

Injustices: The Way They Should be Handled

The onlookers of evil must look at the action and its consequences, learning not make similar choices. As far as excuses are concerned, it is human nature to blame someone else instead of making a change. If the Torah was delivered before the whole world, the Jewish People would not be able to alter it. Once the Torah is modified for one's own agenda and purposes, injustice and catastrophe result. In order to see the truth, one must be aware of all the facts, not a one sided story, but rather a person interested in the truth in a totally unbiased manner.

The guarantor of justice is G-d. A person can be a guarantor of justice by keeping away from infamous behaviour, praying to G-d to remove such behaviour from his midst.
